

How much innovation power is really present in your company? How successful was the last project actually? And what is the state of employee satisfaction and engagement in your company?

You can obtain well-founded answers to these questions with our software, Loop Now. In collaboration with the Talent Management Institute of @ESCP Europe, we have expanded and updated our questionnaire based on insights from scientific studies, including those from the fields of engagement and satisfaction research. Our questionnaire now consists of several hundred questions, including newly developed scientifically validated questions on topics such as employee satisfaction, innovation capability, project success, and more.

About Loopline Systems

Loopline Systems supports companies in the implementation and optimization of agile leadership, employee feedback, and performance management. With our cloud-based solution, companies can digitize and streamline feedback processes. Through regular automated surveys, companies can enhance employee engagement and develop ideas that drive the entire organization forward.

About ESCP Europe

ESCP Europe, the world's oldest business school (founded in 1819), actively embodies and promotes the European idea through its multi-campus model established in Berlin, London, Madrid, Paris, Turin, and Warsaw since 1973. Today, ESCP Europe has approximately

5,000 students and 5,000 executives from over 100 nations at its six European locations. ESCP Europe Berlin is recognized as a scientific university by the German government and is the first university in Germany to be accredited by all three major international accreditation agencies - AACSB, AMBA, and EFMD (EQUIS). It belongs to the one percent of all business schools worldwide that have received the "Triple Crown" accreditation. For more information about ESCP Europe Business School Berlin, please visit www.escpeurope.eu/de